Teacher

First Choice

Again I thought the options were really close but the online ALEK program put this over the top and as my first choice accompanying online digital textbook offers excellent remediation and enrichment resources for in class and at home learning and is one of the best I have ever used. The assessments are easy to access, edit, and customize to student learning needs.

Teacher

First Choice

This looks like a great option for my standard class. I like that examples are presented in their materials and it isn't as word heavy as the other option.

Teacher

First Choice

This is my first choice.

Teacher

First Choice

Love it and all of the components

Teacher

Second Choice

Did not follow order of curriculum presentation in curriculum guide.

Teacher

Second Choice

I did not like ALEKS as well as the IReady that we are currently using.

Teacher

Second Choice

I would be happy with either choice and felt their student/teacher editions were equal, however the ALEK component in the other option is why I chose that one as my first choice.

Teacher

Second Choice

Not a fan of this curriculum.

Teacher

Second Choice

Tough to choose between first and second choice, but online video presentation of first choice gave more information/detail that I could follow to understand the resources available.

Teacher

I can live with this choice but not as many teacher resources.

Teacher

Third Choice

This book is too similar to the Savvas book that we currently have and I do not care for the current book. There is not enough complexity and there are too many errors.

Teacher

Third Choice

Not enough scaffolding in each section. Not enough practice opportunity from basic to more complex problems.

Teacher

Third Choice

Having used a Savvas book for the past 3 years, it is ok. The order that topics are introduced is not the best and there is a lack of good practice problems for the students.

Teacher

Second Choice

This book was not difficult enough for both regular Alg. 2 and Alg. 2 Honors. I also don't like that the textbook is in a workbook form instead of hard cover.

Teacher

First Choice

I believe this curriculum has the most thorough explanations and examples for each concept. The topics are sequenced well and the student edition looks very user friendly.

Teacher

Second Choice

I liked the set up of the book and the chosen examples better than the Pearson book.

Teacher

First Choice

This was the only book that had enough rigor for both Alg. 2 and Alg. 2 Honors. I also like that it comes in a hard cover version.

Teacher

First Choice

I like that there are lots of resources for teachers. There are lots of practice problems to choose from all in one place.

Teacher

I like the spiral reviews at the end of each section.

EnVision has never been a reliable resource in my opinion- not only is their explanation shoddy for student reference, but the answers in the keys provided are often incorrect as well.

Teacher

This has a proved track record in our county and they offer many online access points as well as resources for ELL learners and students needing extra help. Honors lessons are clearly indicated. There are a number of errors in their online homework and quiz assignments that should be cleaned up

Teacher

Second Choice

Not sure with some issues we've had in the past, but the third option didn't have everything available to preview.

Teacher

First Choice

I like this book and the online platform

Teacher

Second Choice

Very busy, lots of options (almost too much), can be overwhelming ... but familiarity to the product makes it second choice.

Teacher

Teacher

Third Choice

Least 'user-friendly' ... last choice ...

Teacher

Third Choice

Reveal's online program does not always work great, and the online textbook isn't great.

Teacher

First Choice

Good online material, and it is my choice for Algebra. I would rather not have multiple programs if possible.

many times. However, there are a number of incomplete or missing components. I am not willing to choose a textbook based on a promise of what might be available in the future

Teacher

Third Choice

Could not get in to preview all the material, especially the online platform.

Teacher

First Choice

I like all the information in this book!

Teacher

Second Choice

Teacher

Third Choice

Online is not good at all

Teacher

Third Choice

No online component makes this a third choice.

Teacher

Third Choice

I didn't like the text. It didn't have answers to the examples so a parent would have a hard time helping their student.

Teacher

This was recommended by the committee members.

Teacher*First Choice

I like the QR code videos.

Teacher*First Choice

I like the graphing calculator help for students.

Teacher*Second Choice

This textbook, with resources, do not appear to be the best option for covering the new BEST standards.

Teacher*First Choice

The questions and pacing are at the level needed to prepare students for Calculus.

Teacher*Second Choice

This was not recommended by the committee membes.

Teacher*Second Choice

I couldn't view the instructor resources.

I saw the etextbook, but the instructor items were blocked (I did login with the Teacher Access info).

Teacher*First Choice

This textbook, with supporting software, will be the best tool to use to cover the content reflected in the new BEST standards.

Teacher

First Choice

Only real choice between the two books. An AP level textbook would not be suitable for the on-level statistics course.

Teacher

First Choice

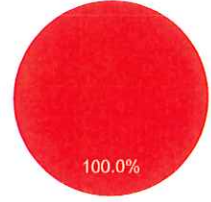

The two products seem very similar, but this product seems to appeal more to the content of the BEST standards.

Teacher

First Choice

This book addresses all areas of the course standards. It is written at an appropriate reading level. The teacher resources are excellent.

Stats: Modeling the World 5e c2019 (Bock, Bullar

Teacher

Second Choice

Excellent textbook but material is far beyond the scope of the intended course.

Teacher

Second Choice

The two products for this course seem to be very similar. From the description and what I can view in my math lab, this resource would be my second choice for this course.

Teacher

Second Choice

This book is written to coincide with AP/College Board CED specifications and is beyond what is needed for the scope of this course in some areas and is lacking sections required for the Honors course.
