

Sample School District Policies

Okaloosa County has no policy so that they can operate more freely with their business partners. Some examples in Okaloosa County: Gulf Power Academy and CHELCO Academy. In addition, many different businesses have their names attached to individual academies and on buildings in some form or fashion.

Alachua County has no policy so they can operate more freely with their business partners. One of their Agriscience academies is housed in the Cellon building with the name on the side of the building that can be viewed by the public from the street. Cellon is an agriculture business that originates from the Gainesville area.

Miami Dade has many academies and programs with business partner names as part of the program/academy name. They have no board policy so they can work with business partners on an individual basis. Examples: Toyota T-Ten Academy, Honda Pact Program, Florida Power and Light Academy, CISCO Academy, and Oracle Academy.

Broward County and Orange County both have a Toyota T-Ten Academy. They do not have a Board policy.

St. Johns County has no Board policy, but does have procedures. I have attached a draft of Guidelines for Academy Naming Rights.
